

To submit an entry for the Routledge Inclusive Economics Prize, please fill out this form, and email the completed version and relevant CVs to inclusive-economics@tandf.co.uk.

Full prize details are available at: <https://think.taylorandfrancis.com/routledge-inclusive-economics-prize>.

1. Please give the name and contact details of the corresponding applicant.

Name:
Email:

2. Please give details of all applicants. All applicants should also attach their CVs.

Full Name and Title	Department/Establishment	Post Held

3. Please provide details of any other contributors to the research:

Full Name and Title	Department/Establishment	Post Held	Contribution

4. Title of research project:

5. Summary of research (for a lay audience) [max 250 words]:

6. What are the main objectives of the research? [max 500 words]

7. What are the intended applications or outcomes of the research? [max 500 words]

8. Research project timeframe:

Proposed start date:		Proposed duration:
----------------------	--	--------------------	--

9. What aspect of your research project are you intending to use the prize money to fund?

10. Are you applying elsewhere for financial support for the research project, or have you already been awarded funding? If so, please give details including the approximate total funding you have, or expect to, receive (including currency):

12. Please share how you heard about the Inclusive Economics Prize.

Terms and conditions, and criteria for eligibility

- Applications are welcome from scholars from varied research backgrounds. We particularly welcome applications from scholars based beyond Europe and North America, and early career researchers; applicants who have no permanent academic affiliation are also eligible.
- Although research outputs may be in languages other than English, applications for the Prize must be submitted in English.
- The research should be original, and should demonstrate at least one of the criteria mentioned above. Applications relating to existing research projects will be considered, but should demonstrate how the award will be used to further develop the existing research.
- This award is solely for research projects that have received a total funding of £30,000 (or equivalent currency) or less.
- Applications should relate to a post-doctoral research project; the award is not intended to fund PhD research.
- The prize will be judged by a panel of experts and advisers appointed by the Routledge Economics team, and the Senior Books Publisher at Routledge.
- Should no applications be deemed suitable, the prize will not be awarded.
- The Award winners should be willing to provide a photograph of themselves and to participate in relevant promotional coverage which may be undertaken by Routledge.
- Previous winners are not eligible for entry in successive years.
- The judges' decision will be final, and no correspondence will be entered into.